

Note: As this suggested Homeland Security FM Receiver involves nothing in the way of new and complex circuitry, I see little reason to show every switch, line and connection. There are no circuits or hardware involved that do not already exist in electronic equipment available today.

FIG 1

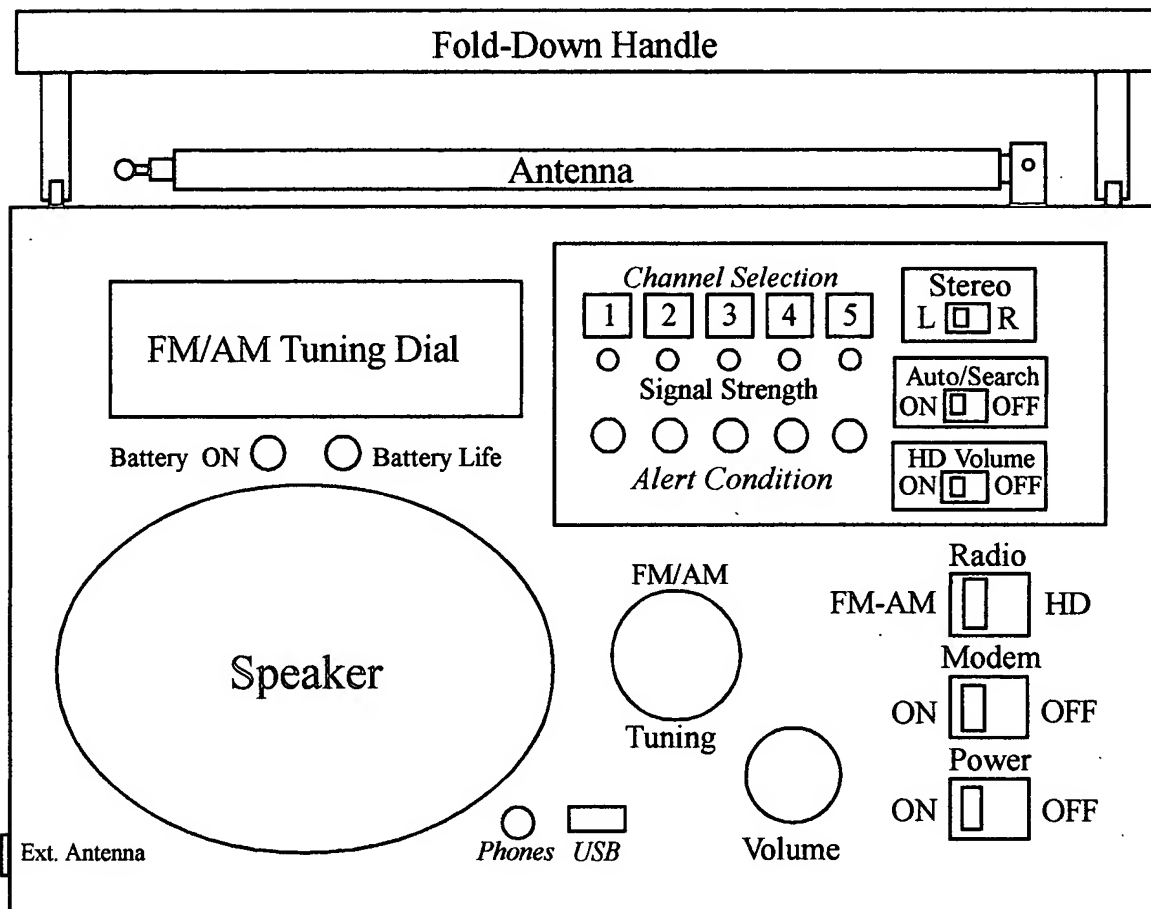

FIG 2

Note: The above is not suggested as a design patent, just a drawing to better explain the operation of the various controls of such a receiver.